Bound Table

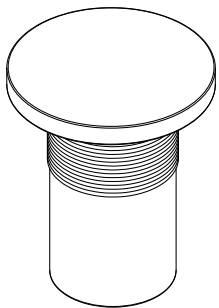

Bound Table c/o Locki Humphrey

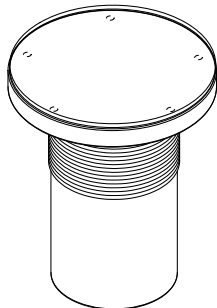

Bound Table is a considered design object of innate functionality.

With its minimal architectural proportions and sculptural presence, the Bound Table is a considered design object of innate functionality. Its columnar form, cast in Italian marrone terracotta, embraces the weight, warmth and natural variation of this elemental material. A hand-finished scalloped detail graces the central column, while an optional glass tabletop introduces an interplay of surface and colour.

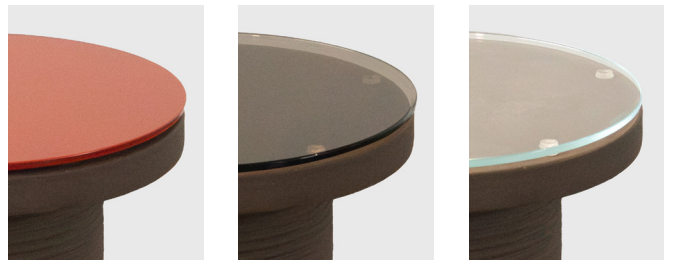

From the studio of Locki Humphrey, this contemporary design represents the refinement of form and artful material expression for which they are known.
